Message: I just happened upon your website, and wanted to say that I read your book several years ago and you are an extremely inspiring person and I hope that everybody reads your book because you relate a time (that, I will admit I am green that I was not apart of) with such eloquence. I was delighted to read about your life. Thank you.

Message: Hey Mim, hope this day finds you well and prosperous.

Remember the studio in Altadena? Big Joe brought you by to see if we could be the backing band for your songs of wandering and dissolution. I still have the tape of our version of Gnawa music. Did you ever release any of those wonderful recordings of the real Gnawa guys? I've looked for that magical music forever, but it's always been a faint ghost, disappearing around corners, never apprehended. I still tell people the stories about the staff of Hermes and smoking the lungs of the hashishin. You made a big impression in the few days I knew you.

Message: Scala's ice-cream was the best I've ever tasted. Nothing, nothing comes close to that vanilla. My mum still lives in Anselm Road and I rue the day Scala's parlour closed. If I had the money, I'd rebuild it just as it was. Just wish I'd been there when Diana Dors visited. Loved the book. Write another.

Message: Mim,

Just read your book over Christmas. A brilliantly written account of the period. I will pass it on to fellow "old hippies".

I realised in the early seventies that Jesus Christ is the true way to enlightenment. Either he was mad or God.

Peace and Love,

Ali

Message: Hi Mim,

I have a "white elephant" located in the midlands, not too far from Bagnelstown, (50km). It may be of some interest to an artist of your multifarious talents.

Do you have a spare million to lavish on a white elephant. I would recommend starting with an evening meeting at the Kilbeggan pony races and putting a twenty good thing at very long odds. If you had a good run of luck, you could be the owner of this white elephant - all in good time.

Seriously, but not so seriously, I have an interesting arts/music/creative writing project in mind, to which you may be willing to put your name.

Good wishes,

Liam O'Reilly.
